

Capacity Building Programme on "Advances in sheep and goat management"

Krishi Vigyan Kendra Cuttack successfully organized a 5-day training program for 25-grassroot level extension functionaries named Pranimitras from Banki and Tangi-Choudwar block of Cuttack district on “Advances in sheep and goat management” at KVK campus, Santhapur from August 01-05, 2022. In this training program, the pranimitras learned about different practical problems and how to work in the field keeping need of field situations. The training coordinator, Dr Ranjan Kumar Mohanta, SMS (Animal Science), imparted training to the participants to address the common problems faced by the animal owners about internal and external parasites, balanced feed preparation from local feed ingredients, common housing system for better production and reproduction parameters. They learnt about the basics and applied aspects of administering oral and injectable medicines. Dr Padmini Swain, Director (I/C), National Rice Research Institute, Cuttack advised the trainees to utilize the knowledge and skill gained during the training during the valedictory session along with distribution of certificates. Dr MJ Baig, Pnincipal Scientist, NRRI, Cuttack, encouraged the participants to serve the mute animals and the rural people. Dr. SujataSethy, OIC, KVK Cuttack welcomed the trainees and Dr Dillip Ranjan Sarangi, SMS (Soil Science), offered the vote of thanks.

Glimpses of Training on “Advances in sheep and goat management”